Excerpt

Ella Dark stood at the edge of the crime scene, her eyes scanning the area. The body of a young girl lay on the ground, covered in blood. Ella had seen many dead bodies in her career, but this one was different. The girl's eyes were wide open, and her face was frozen in a look of terror.

Ella took a deep breath and stepped closer. She examined the body, looking for any clues that could help her identify the girl and find her killer.

"What have we got?" Ella asked the detective who was standing next to her.

"The victim's name is Sarah Jones," the detective said. "She's ten years old. She was reported missing yesterday afternoon."

Ella nodded. "Any witnesses?"

"None so far," the detective said. "We're still canvassing the neighborhood."

Ella looked around at the crime scene. There were no signs of a struggle, and there was no weapon in sight. It looked like Sarah had been killed instantly.

"This is a clean kill," Ella said. "The killer knew what he was ng."

Ella turned and walked away from the crime scene. She needed to find Sarah's killer, and she needed to do it fast.
