Essential Surfing Terms

- Barrel: The hollow, tube-like section of a breaking wave that surfers chase and ride inside.
- Break: The point where waves crash over a shallow underwater structure, creating waves suitable for surfing.
- Drop-in: When a surfer paddles into a wave directly in front of another surfer, stealing their wave.

- Fin: A small, fin-like device attached to a surfboard to provide stability and maneuverability.
- Leash: A cord that attaches a surfer to their surfboard, preventing it from drifting away after a fall.
- Lip: The upper, breaking edge of a wave, where the water curls over and crashes.
- Lineup: The area where surfers wait in the water, ready to catch waves.
- Offshore: A wind direction that blows away from the shore, producing cleaner waves.
- Onshore: A wind direction that blows towards the shore, creating choppier waves.
- Peak: The point where a wave begins to break.
- Shoulder: The section of a wave beyond the peak, where the water is still breaking but less intensely.
- Windswell: Waves generated by distant winds, rather than local wind.

Advanced Surfing Slang

- Air drop: A maneuver where a surfer launches high into the air off the lip of a wave.
- Alley-oop: A 360-degree spin performed by a surfer while in the air.
- Backdoor: A wave that breaks from the inside out, allowing surfers to ride it in the opposite direction of the main break.
- Carve: A graceful, sweeping turn on a wave.

- Cutback: A sharp turn back towards the breaking part of the wave.
- Floater: A maneuver where a surfer stays in the flat section of a wave, just ahead of the breaking lip.
- Goofy foot: A surfer who places their right foot forward on the surfboard.
- Indonesian barrel: A particularly long and hollow barrel.
- Kook: A beginner surfer, or someone who lacks surfing etiquette.
- Nugget: A small, powerful wave that breaks close to the shore.
- Old Man: An experienced and respected surfer.
- Pit: A deep and narrow barrel.
- Reef break: A break where waves break over a shallow coral reef.
- Swell: A series of waves generated by distant weather systems.
- Tube: The inside of a barrel.
