3. Calmness: When children are misbehaving, it is important for parents to stay calm. Yelling or acting out of frustration will only make the situation worse. Instead, parents should try to remain calm and respectful, even in the face of challenging behavior.
4. Guidance: Children need guidance in Free Download to learn how to behave appropriately. Parents can provide guidance by teaching their children about the rules, explaining why those rules are important, and helping them to practice following the rules.
